

WELCOME

Dr Furnivall purchased Great Fosters in 1818 and converted the building to a lunatic asylum with his partner Sir John Chapman (one of the founder members of the Royal College of Surgeons).

Sir John was a 'modern thinker' who believed that mental illness was not solely related to physical illness.

His treatments were quite revolutionary, and it is believed that King George III resided as one of his patients.

At the tail end of the 19th century Great Fosters reinforced its regal connections when it became the property of Queen Alexandra's lady in waiting, The Baroness Halkett. It later passed to General Montagu whom was involved in the post war poultry boom and traded as The Black Poultry Farm with the telegraphic address 'Eggs Egham'!

WELCOME

Great Fosters has enjoyed a long and celebrated history. The oldest part of the house dates from the late 16th century and it is thought to have been originally built as a royal hunting lodge in the Great Forest of Windsor, with its name a corruption of 'Foresters'.

Among a host of distinguished owners, Great Fosters lists Judge Doddridge who was Solicitor General to King James I, The 9th Earl of Northumberland and Edward Knight (Jane Austen's adopted brother).

In 1715, Sir Charles Orby resided here, and in 1787 it is recorded that one of Sir Thomas' great grandsons sold the property to a Mr Wyatt for £700.
